

Few provinces in Spain can contend about having so many and diverse Protected Nature Reserves. ♦ There are two National Reserves: Tablas de Daimiel and Caba♦ros. ♦ Lagunas de Ruidera Nature Reserve and another in perspective: Valle de Alcudia and Sierra Madrona. ♦ Nature tributes: Volcanoes of Calatrava. ♦ Biosphere Reserve: Manchegan Wetlands. ♦ All this exists in addition to an extensive glossary of Reserves and other protected formations such as: Hoces del Guadiana, Rio Milagro, Laguna Inesperada, Abedular de Rio Frio and others.
The existence of diverse ecosystems gives them a higher ecological value: Mediterranean and Atlantic forests, wetlands, volcanoes, river-side forests, barren plains, pasture grounds, peatland mines, and the resultant biodiversity they stimulate.
To combine them in a route will bring a pleasure to every sense and a complete discovery of the peninsula's inner part.
